Book shows trials of tutor for Saudi Arabia royalty

Welcome to a world where a woman endures a secluded life behind a veil. In “The Unveiling: An American Teacher in a Saudi Palace,” a new book by Kristin Decker, a husband and wife teaching team travel to the other side of the world to provide the best possible education to a princess’s children in Saudi Arabia.

After becoming tutors for the secretly opened private school, they are faced with a medieval system of palace intrigue and subterfuge. With the threat of imprisonment, they are coerced into signing false statements. Will God deliver them or will they be forgotten in a foreign land?

Decker was born and raised in California and attended the University of Calgary in Alberta. After meeting her husband, she taught for nearly ten years before accepting the position of private tutor for the royal family in Saudi Arabia. Now residing near Dallas, Texas, she teaches U.S. History.

“The Unveiling: An American Teacher in a Saudi Palace” is available in softcover (ISBN 1-58939-912-9) and hardcover (ISBN 1-58939-911-0) from Virtualbookworm.com, Amazon.com and Barnes and Noble.com.
